T1V Announces Partnership with Distributor Media Plus as Collaboration Drives the New Era of Work in Japan

T1V is excited to announce its strategic partnership with Japanese distributor Media Plus as T1V continues to expand the global reach of its hybrid collaboration tools for in-room, hybrid, and virtual teams.

Aligning with Media Plus, a key distributor and innovator in the Asian market for enterprise and education technology, comes at a time where there is an increased demand for hybrid collaboration solutions that support real-time meetings and collaboration for distributed workers.

ThinkHub collaboration is designed to bring your team together, no matter where you work. ThinkHub is accompanied by the T1V app, so you can utilize the software from any personal device including a PC, tablet, smartphone, and more...

What's more, with ThinkHub running on a large screen touch display, hybrid teams can share ideas and visualize unlimited content with ThinkHub, creating endless opportunities for business ideation and brainstorming sessions, all while streamlining workflows and processes.

Use the virtual whiteboard and annotation toolset in ThinkHub to increase productivity and collaborative work, all while having the ability to remotely access content - or download, save and resume the ThinkHub Canvas for full meeting persistence.

ThinkHub is now available to demo in the Media Plus showroom.

Media Plus President, Naoko Sugano, explains, "We are very pleased to offer T1V ThinkHub in our demo room. With the growing demand for hybrid work around the world, ThinkHub is exactly what we've been looking for as a software solution that combines the ability to accelerate online and offline communication. The exciting solution enhances teamwork regardless of where you work, and will stimulate the growth of companies in the Asian market. With this product, we hope to support companies that are looking for ways to work in the future, in line with the new era of work."

"T1V is thrilled to partner with Media Plus in bringing ThinkHub collaboration to the Japanese market," says Marco Ventura, T1V Vice President of International Sales. He continues, "As companies navigate the challenges of distributed teams and spaces, ThinkHub combines the power of visual collaboration with productivity and video conferencing tools - all while connecting the remote worker to their in-office colleagues. As T1V looked to expand in the Asian market, it was crucial that we find a partner with strong expertise and a forward-looking perspective in the collaboration space - we are excited to have found that partner in Media Plus."
